

TECH TIP

Reverse Image Search in Google

Reverse search an image on the web, such as in an article, by right clicking on the mouse and then pressing S. Google will then search for similar images as well as suggested tags and 'guess' what the image is. You can add to these tags to help refine the search.

You can also drag and drop images from your desktop into the Google Image search function, or upload them from your computer. This can be useful to find the image source or to find visually similar images.
